Through the enthronement journey I had the opportunity to grow in my faith & courage. I feel more connected with God and what he is calling me to do to live a more meaningful life. He has put me into this world with a mission, and since the enthronement my mission is more clear. I am truly blessed for all the doors that have been opened. I can now move more confidently in the direction God is calling me to go. I have been, and ~~still~~ will be, faced with many uncomfortable situations where I have to stand up for what is morally right. Having the courage to do so is helping me heal & feel a sense of empowerment.

Not only do I feel empowered with the courage God has blessed me with, but I feel beautiful. It is easy to be absorbed into today's society, putting a lot of focus on self image and immorality. However, I am content with the way I look and how others view me. I realized I have so much to offer far beyond what's on the outside. I found it easier to say "I'm sorry" especially to my parents & siblings.

Living with Jesus and Mary in my home & heart has given me the courage to stand up for my faith and open my eyes to see the light in dark times. ♡thank you
